

ROCKS OF BAWN

The O'Reilly family has had a passion and history of making wine in the west coast since 1989. Our home in the Pacific Northwest gives our craft expression of the finest vineyards in the Willamette, Rocks District of Milton Freewater, and exclusive locales throughout the region. Together we have crafted a legacy that has been recognized globally by critics, wine writers and consumers.

The story behind Rocks of Bawn is rooted in the historical struggle and resilience of the Irish people. Inspired by the popular Irish folk song, Rocks of Bawn pays homage to the determination of those who faced hardship on the rocky west coast of Ireland. Just as our forebears persevered in cultivating the challenging soil, we are dedicated to crafting exceptional wines that embody the spirit of tireless effort and unwavering passion.

I've always craved White Bordeaux – I love the waxy texture of the wine and the fig flavors from the Semillon that contrasts beautifully with the fragrant Sauvignon Blanc. The blend is lively and delicious with enough flavor to enjoy with an entire swordfish if you're so inclined!
